'Portfolio, Programme and Project Offices (P30)' is an AXELOS framework offering universal principles and techniques to help organizations deliver projects and programs effectively and efficiently. This course introduces the idea of a P30 model, as well as how to design, implement, and operate them. Candidates also learn the different roles and responsibilities within a P30 team, allowing them to confidently collaborate with and support P30 offices.

WHO IS THIS COURSE AIMED AT?

- Members of P30 offices or any else requiring an understanding of the framework's technology and concepts
- P30 users interested in pursuing higher-level qualifications
- Candidates outside of P30 teams who require an understanding of the framework and its key concepts
- Businesses eager to adopt a successful method for achieving goals within an established and effective framework
- Candidates eager to further their careers in project and program management

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN?

- What a P30 is
- The benefits of having a P30
- How to design a P30 model
- Roles and responsibilities in a P30 office
- How to implement or re-energize a P30
- How to operate a P30

WHY TAKE THIS COURSE?

- P30s support strategic change management with effective strategy, prioritization, risk management, and resource optimization.
- P30s also improve project and program ROIs by balancing output delivery with time, cost, and quality restraints.
- Studying P30 is an excellent way to learn how to deal with senior managers and decision-makers regarding project and program management, delivery, and strategy.
- P30 is a generic Project Management Office (PMO) qualification, making it highly relevant to any candidates seeking knowledge and skills in project/ program management.
- Good e-Learning is an award-winning online training provider with a diverse portfolio of accredited e-learning certification courses.
- This course is fully accredited by PeopleCert.

IS THERE AN EXAM?
